Anti-Spam Policy

Prime Codex LLC views the transmission or distribution of any unsolicited bulk or unsolicited commercial e-mails (“Spam”) as a serious and punishable offense. Users of Prime Codex LLC services are strictly prohibited to send or cause Spam to be delivered to any customers of Prime Codex LLC.

In compliance with the international anti-spam policies, Prime Codex LLC prohibits the sending of emails to or through our website or services that contains the following:

- Invalid or non-existent domain names
- Invalid or forged headers
- A third party's internet domain name, or be transmitted from or through a third party's equipment, without permission of the third party
- Any techniques to otherwise misrepresent, hide or obscure any information in identifying the point of origin or the transmission path
- Other means of deceptive addressing
- False or missing information in the subject line or otherwise contain false or missing content
- Otherwise violate our Terms of Use

Prime Codex LLC strictly forbids the harvesting, mining or collection of e-mail addresses or other information about our customers or subscribers through the website or its services. It is also forbidden to use our services in a way that would damage, disable, overburden or impair any aspect of the services or would in any way impede other users' use and enjoyment of Prime Codex LLC services.

Civil, criminal, or administrative penalties may be imposed against the sender and those assisting the sender for the unauthorized use of any Prime Codex LLC service, in connection with the transmission of unsolicited e-mail, including the transmission of e-mail that violates this policy.

Violators of the international anti-spam laws according to countries shall be subject to “cease and desist” orders or penalties from the authorities. Criminal prosecution is also possible in the case of outrageous offenders, which can result in penalties such as fines, forfeiture of proceeds and equipment. Offenders can and may also be subjected to imprisonment.

Refund & Cancellation Policy

1. This Policy is to inform you that due to the nature of business, no refunds are provided by the Company.
2. The only exception is made if you are not the Company's Customer. To qualify as a non-customer, you must not hold a trading account with the Company that has completed the KYC process (ID verification at minimum). In this case, the Company will refund any money received from you using the same method originally used by you.
3. Without derogating from the provisions of the Clauses above, it is expressly stipulated that you are free to use a withdrawal procedure to get money from your trading account. The ways of withdrawal provided by the Company are listed on our website <https://primecodex.com/>

4. In the circumstance of a chargeback, as the client, you are responsible for covering any reversed payments and/or chargeback fees. If there are insufficient funds in the trading account to cover, you agree to deposit to your trading account to cover via bank wire transfer.
5. The company will take all necessary measures to prevent and block both input and withdrawal by third parties of money from the customer account. Input and output of money from the account can be carried out only by the account owner.

Language Discrepancies

This Policy has been drafted in the English language. If there is any discrepancy between the meanings of any translated versions of this Agreement and the English language version, the meaning of the English language version shall prevail.

Anti-Money Laundering Policy

Prime Codex LLC is committed to the highest standards of Anti-Money laundering (AML) compliance and requires management and employees to adhere to these standards to prevent the use of our products and services for money laundering purposes.

Prime Codex LLC will examine its Anti Money Laundering strategies, goals, and objectives on an ongoing basis and maintain an effective Anti-Money Laundering program for the firm's business that reflects the best practices for a global financial brokerage. Adherence to Prime Codex LLC's Anti-Money Laundering Program is the responsibility of all employees. The program includes client screening and monitoring requirements, "know your customer" policies (including the requirement to establish the identity of beneficial owners), record-keeping requirements, the reporting of suspicious circumstances in accordance with relevant laws, and AML training.

Objectives

The standards set out in the Prime Codex LLC Global Anti-Money Laundering Program ("AML Program") are minimum requirements based on applicable legal and regulatory requirements and apply to Prime Codex LLC. These requirements are intended to prevent Prime Codex LLC, our employees, and clients from being misused for money laundering, terrorist financing, or other financial crime. The AML Program establishes the general framework for the fight against money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Applicability

Prime Codex LLC must ensure that our subordinated subsidiaries and affiliates globally fulfill the legal duties resulting from regulations set out. Wherever local regulations are stricter than the requirements set out in the AML Program, the stricter standard has to be applied. If any applicable laws are in conflict with the AML Program, Prime Codex LLC must consult with the local legal department to resolve the conflict. If the minimum requirements set out in the AML Program cannot be applied in a certain country because the application would be against local law or cannot be enforced due to other than legal reasons, Prime Codex LLC has to ensure that it will not:

- Enter into a business relationship;
- Continue a business relationship or;
- Carry out any transactions. If business relations already exist in that country, Prime Codex LLC has to ensure that the business relationship is terminated regardless of other contractual or legal obligations.

Definition of the Term Money Laundering

Money Laundering is the introduction of assets derived from illegal and criminal activities (Predicate offenses) into the legal, financial, and business cycle. Offenses are, for example, forgery of money, extortionate robbery, drug crime, fraud, corruption, organized crime, terrorism, etc. Predicate offenses for money laundering are defined by local law. Generally speaking, the money laundering process consists of three “stages”:

Placement: The introduction of illegally obtained monies or other valuables into financial or nonfinancial institutions.

Layering: Separating the proceeds of criminal activity from their source through the use of layers of complex financial transactions. These layers are designed to hamper the audit trail, disguise the origin of funds and provide anonymity.

Integration: Placing the laundered proceeds back into the economy in such a way that they re-enter the financial system as apparently legitimate funds. These “stages” are not static and overlap broadly. Financial institutions may be misused at any point in the money laundering process.

Management and Controls of AML Risks

Prime Codex LLC has developed an AML Program that is based upon The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) Recommendations which set out a comprehensive and consistent framework of measures to be implemented to combat money laundering and terrorist financing, as well as the financing of proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. The AML Program includes but is not limited to:

1. Customer Due Diligence Program, which includes client identification and verification, Know Your Client principles, and implementing various programs that are appropriate to remediate customer due diligence of existing clients.
2. Customer Due Diligence measures for non-face-to-face business relationships to address specific risks.
3. Conduct enhanced due diligence on customers assessed as higher risk, such as politically exposed persons and close associates to politically exposed persons.
4. Establishing systems and procedures designed to monitor client transactions designed to identify suspicious transactions.
5. Ensuring that employees, members of the committee of management, and directors of Prime Codex LLC are regularly and appropriately trained on AML/CFT laws and regulations, customer due diligence measures, and detecting and reporting suspicious transactions.
6. Establishing robust screening procedures to ensure high standards when hiring employees, members of the management committee, and directors.

Minimum Requirements

Prospective clients who are interested in establishing a business relationship with Prime Codex LLC will have to be subject to the following anti-money laundering controls and measures to ensure that funds or assets of customers are not proceeds from drug dealing, criminal conduct, or terrorism financing.

Identification and Verification of Customer Identity: Before entering into a business relationship with a client, Prime Codex LLC will identify the client by obtaining mandatory information about the client and verifying the identity of the client using a reliable, independent source of data, documents, or information.

Identification and Verification of Beneficial Owner: Prime Codex LLC will inquire on the existence of any beneficial owner in relation to the client and will identify the beneficial owners and verify the beneficial owner's identity using relevant information or data obtained from reliable, independent sources.

Ongoing Monitoring: All clients will be subject to ongoing monitoring, which include observing the conduct of the client's account and scrutinizing transactions undertaken throughout the course of business relations. Clients' transactions must be consistent with the client's profile and source of funds.

Prohibited Activities: Prime Codex LLC will not keep anonymous accounts, accounts with fictitious names, or accounts with tampered and forged documents.

Suspicious Transactions Reporting: Prime Codex LLC shall submit reports on suspicious transactions (including attempted transactions) to the relevant local competent authorities. The Group Anti-Money Laundering Department will be informed of all suspicious transactions.

Record Retention

All client-related information and documents, transactions, account files, business correspondence, and analysis results shall be retained for a minimum of 10 years.

Prohibited Business Relationships

Prime Codex LLC shall refuse to establish a business relationship or to terminate an existing relationship with a client if Prime Codex LLC cannot reasonably ascertain the true identity of the client and/or beneficial owners or if the client is unwilling or reluctant to provide any information or document requested by Prime Codex LLC. In particular, the firm will not:

- Accept monies that are known or suspected to be the proceeds of criminal activity.
- Enter into/maintain business relationships with individuals or entities known or suspected to be a terrorist or criminal organization or member of such or listed on sanction lists.
- Enter into relationships with clients from restricted or prohibited countries.
- Enter into relationships with clients operating in sensitive/high-risk/prohibited industries.

Risk Analysis

Prime Codex LLC has implemented an ongoing AML Risk Analysis to assess the level of risk exposure considering the firm's customers, products, services, entities, and geographic locations risk and to derive appropriate security measures from this analysis. AML safeguards are derived from the results of the AML Risk Analysis.

Controls

Adherence to the global-wide AML program needs to be reviewed regularly to ensure that the firm's efforts are successful. The AML Officer in Prime Codex LLC is therefore obliged to conduct appropriate controls. The responsible AML Officer must ensure, by implementing adequate customer- and business-related controls, that all applicable AML requirements are being adhered to and that security measures are properly functioning.

KYC Programme

Prime Codex LLC has implemented a strict KYC program to ensure all kinds of customers (natural or legal persons or legal structures) are subject to adequate identification, risk rating, and monitoring measures. This program has been implemented globally. KYC includes not only knowing the clients and entities the firm deals with, or renders services to, but also the Ultimate Beneficial Owners (UBOs), Legal Representatives and Authorized Signatories as appropriate. The program includes strict identification requirements, name screening procedures, and the ongoing monitoring and regular review of all existing business relationships. Special safeguards are implemented for business relationships with politically exposed persons (PEPs) and clients from countries or industries deemed high risk.

Training Programme

Prime Codex LLC has implemented a comprehensive AML training program to ensure that all staff, particularly those responsible for transaction processing and/or initiating and/or establishing business relationships, undergo AML awareness training. Prime Codex LLC's training is tailored to the business to ensure that staff are aware of different possible patterns and techniques of money laundering which may occur in their everyday business. Training also covers the general duties arising from applicable external (legal and regulatory), internal requirements and the resulting individual duties which must be adhered to in everyday business as well as typologies to recognize money laundering or financial crime activities.

Reliability of Staff

Prime Codex LLC has implemented processes to ensure that only reliable individuals are employed.

Independent Testing

Adherence to the requirements of the Prime Codex LLC's AML program is subject to independent testing by Prime Codex LLC's Internal Audit function and the Semi-Annual External Auditor.

Trading Policy

Misquotes Policy

We have multiple liquidity providers and quotes are aggregated using an aggregation system which generates a price from multiple liquidity providers. Misquotes may happen when 1 or more liquidity providers have "skewed" prices and quotes are very different from other liquidity providers. In such a case we reserve the right to reverse, cancel or delete orders where misquote occurred.

Arbitrage Policy

We have multiple liquidity providers and quotes are aggregated using an aggregation system which generates a price from multiple liquidity providers. Similar to misquotes policy, Arbitrage is when traders take unfair advantage on quotes that are very different from other liquidity providers. This may happen when 1 or more liquidity providers have “skewed” prices and quotes that may be different from other liquidity providers.

Inactivity Policy

If a real account is not accessed for three consecutive months, it will be considered inactive. Meanwhile, a demo account will be classified as inactive if it has not been accessed for six months. In the event that an account is classified as inactive, Prime Codex LLC may choose to archive it.

Margin Call & Stop Out Policy

Trading accounts with Prime Codex LLC will automatically experience a margin call if the criteria below are met. It is important to note that proper risk management and setting stop losses can help to reduce the need for a margin call on a trader’s account. We strongly encourage all clients and traders to comply with margin requirements when trading.

- Minimum Margin Requirements on Open Positions must be maintained by the customer at all times.
- All open positions and pending orders are subject to liquidation by Prime Codex LLC In the event of failure to maintain the Minimum Margin Requirement.
- Margin requirements are subject to change at any time. Prime Codex LLC will do its best to notify customers of any projected changes via email and the trading platform's message system.
- Margin Call will occur if the total equity, at any time, equals or falls below 100% of the Used Margin. Positions will be based on the best execution prices available at the time to Prime Codex LLC.
- Prime Codex LLC will liquidate all Open Positions and pending orders in a customer's account if the total equity, at any time, equals or falls below 85% of the Used Margin. Positions will be closed based on the best execution prices available at the time to Prime Codex LLC.
- All open positions on fully hedged accounts will be automatically closed at market prices should the account's equity reach or fall below 0, which applies to all our platforms.
- The placing of Stop Loss Orders, used to minimize losses, is the clients' responsibility.
